Also, how well does the dongle work and does it affect the usable range of the pedal? While Bluetooth devices like the AirTurn BT can only be paired with one host computer at a time, there are a number of innovative iOS app developers that have added the ability to control multiple iPads in just the way you describe, and even. I definitely think I am going to go for the AirTurn, for the simple fact that it has a rechargeable battery, which is also why it is probably more expensive.
